Repertoire: Brahms Symphony No. 2

Fee: £950 (Payment plans available)

Places: Only 6 participants (2 spots left)

If you are serious about learning, you belong here.

Join Peter Stark, Professor of Conducting at the Royal College of Music and one of the world's most respected conducting mentors, for a unique 5-day experience that goes far beyond baton technique.

At the heart of the course is silent conducting—Peter's renowned method for building clarity, confidence, and deep listening. Across four immersive days at a beautiful rural barn, you'll refine your gesture, explore leadership and rehearsal psychology, and enjoy two private Alexander Technique sessions with Rachel Erdos.

On Day 5, everything comes together in an orchestral session with Magna Sinfonia, where you conduct Brahms Symphony No. 2 in a friendly, supportive setting—recorded for your portfolio.

Course Highlights:

- Silent conducting and body use
- Leadership & rehearsal technique
- Deep score study on Brahms Symphony No. 2
- Two private Alexander Technique sessions
- Orchestral day with Magna Sinfonia (recorded)
- Small group – only 6 participants

Venue & Accommodation:

Days 1–4: Breaches Barn, Rockbourne Village – a spacious rural setting with a large outdoor area, fire pit, tennis court, and beautiful walks.

Day 5: Bournemouth School for Girls – orchestral day.

Affordable on-site accommodation available at Breaches Barn (not included in fee). Options include en-suite rooms and shared rooms. Most participants choose to stay on-site for a sociable and relaxed experience.
